FREE TUTORING WEB SITES

Web Site	Academic Strengths	Needs Improvement
Hippocampus.org	It offers help on 10 high school subjects, such as biology and U.S. history. Excellent written audio, and video tutorials have review questions sprinkled throughout. You'll also find interactive aids for 100-plus textbooks.	While the site provided good answers for five of our nice sample questions, it lacks a section on English grammar. Also missing: foreign language support.
Cliffsnotes.com	Beyond literature guides (though, yes, the site has nearly 200 free ones), cliffsnotes.com has info for grades 7 and up, including basic French and Spanish and 10 sciences. The Cheat Sheets are great for pre-test review.	The tutorials are mainly overviews, and might not be thorough enough to clear up a student's confusion about a concept. The site lacks practice problems to reinforce lessons.
Intmath.com	A great resource for high school math: Concepts of algebra, probability, calculus, and other subjects are explained clearly and thoroughly. The search engine tracks down topics (say: scientific notation) quickly.	Some of IntMath's pages are cluttered which can make navigation a little frustrating. Prominent advertisements can be distracting.
Sosmath.com	This site for grades 9 and up teaches by examples—you'll find tons of problems and step-by-step solutions for trigonometry, calculus, and more. Practice quizzes let students learn by trial and error.	While it touched on each of our three sample math questions, the lessons mainly provided only a brief overview, which may not be enough for a child who needs more explanation.
Owl.english.purdue.edu	The Purdue University Online Writing Lab (OWL) offers 200 free lessons and guides for grades 7 and up. You'll find advice on structuring a thesis or essay, doing research, and avoiding composition pitfalls.	Surprisingly, it lacks a dictionary and thesaurus. And while many topics are covered, not all lessons go into as much depth as we would have liked.
Physicsclass Room.com	The superbly organized site gives tutorials and excellent multimedia examples (video and audio) that demystify concepts of physics. The sample problems are illustrated and clearly explained.	At press time, the site lacked a search engine, so homing in on one topic was time-consuming. However there are plans to add a search function soon.

Khan Academy Khanacademy.com	This highly popular website includes almost every subject imaginable for tutorials which includes PSAT/SAT tutorials, and it's all free. Just create a login.	It has ALMOST every subject, but not every subject and you may have to search to find the topic you are working on.
